

iTrust Pediatrics Website Revision Summary

What Lea asked for	What we did
Connect all three practices across every site. Position iTrust Pediatrics & Cares as part of iTrust Wellness; show all three logos and explain how they work together (care across the lifespan, ~age 6 through older adulthood). Leverage Wellness's ~8 years of experience.	Added a shared "One iTrust Family" band to all three sites. It shows all three logos and the lifespan path – Children & adolescents → Adults → Older adults – with each site's "You are here" marker and links to the other two. Lead line: "iTrust Pediatrics is part of iTrust Wellness." Built as a solid branded card design and rolled out with full-color logos across all three sites.
Two clear referral pathways: one for referral partners/providers and one for self-referring patients/parents. Self-referral links to the current form.	Contact page now has "Two ways to begin" : a Parents / self-referral card that links to the appointment form, and a Referring Providers card with phone & email to refer a patient.
Weave key messaging throughout: "Emotional and cognitive well-being can affect individuals of all ages"; a "skilled, experienced" provider team; compassionate care; evidence-based treatment; mental health as integral to a child's health.	Applied site-wide: the family-band lead uses "Emotional and cognitive well-being can affect individuals of all ages." Hero reads "Compassionate Behavioral & Mental Health Care." Team subhead: "Skilled, experienced psychiatric providers." "Evidence-based" runs through the About and Clinical Services copy. Note: the exact line "Mental health is an integral part of a child's overall health" isn't placed verbatim yet – easy to add on request.
Add content early on the home page answering "How do I know if my child needs mental health care?" Acknowledge it's hard to tell (developmental / situational / needs support), give brief common signs, then a clear next step (schedule an initial consultation/evaluation).	Added the "Signs It May Be Time to Reach Out" section high on the home page, with the reassuring paragraph ("Recognizing the signs can be hard... a normal part of growing up, a reaction to something happening now, or something that needs a little more support"), four common-signs panels, and a "Schedule An Initial Appointment" button.
Opening content says "Teens." Start broadly with "children and adolescents"; introduce "teens" later.	Changed the body copy from "children and teens" to "children and adolescents" across the hero, About, Services, and FAQ. "Teens" now only remains in the Team filter chips and SEO/meta (per your call).
The ages 5–17 reference is a chance to introduce the Pediatrics→Wellness relationship and how patients transition into Wellness as they age (continuity, not "aging out").	The "Ages we serve" card now reads: "When your child turns 18, we'll help transition their care to our adult practice at iTrust Wellness," and the family band visualizes that continuity across the lifespan.
"What We Do": reframe "we don't provide talk therapy" around a collaborative-care model (collaborate with therapy practices / professionals when appropriate). Do the same with assessments – say what we DO provide and how we help families navigate outside services.	Reframed as "Our Collaborative Care Model" : "We provide psychiatric care, and we collaborate for the rest... when a fuller approach would help, such as talk therapy or additional testing, we work alongside trusted therapy practices and help your family navigate services from another provider."
"Why It Matters" quote attributed to "Owner & CEO" (Steve) should be "Owner & Founder" (he now has a CEO).	Updated the attribution to "Owner and Founder, iTrust Pediatrics."

What Lea asked for	What we did
Services – reconsider the word “Careful” under Our Clinical Services.	Removed “careful” and rephrased: “...our prescribers offer conservative medication support that’s closely monitored over time.” (The whole Clinical Services section was also redesigned.)
“The Whole Family” – if kept, use a visual patient/family journey or roadmap: Pediatrics → Wellness → Cares.	Delivered as the family band – a visual roadmap of Pediatrics → Wellness → Cares across life stages, on every site.
Contact – change “We’d love to care...” (no “love”); warmer but professional.	Changed to “We’re here to help your family take the next step.”
Change “Meet the People” to “Meet Our Team” or “Meet Our Experienced Providers” (“People” feels too casual).	Team heading is now “Meet Our Experienced Providers.”
Under “Get Started,” drop the “a real person” language; use something like “Connect with our team.”	“Real person” language removed. The Get Started line now reads: “Request an appointment or ask a question, our team will respond promptly.”
Overall: warm, reassuring, approachable for parents, yet clinically credible and professional – experienced team, evidence-based, collaborative, part of a larger lifespan organization. The three sites must feel connected, not like three unrelated companies.	De-AI’d and professionalized the copy across the site. The shared family band + consistent messaging + unified logos tie the three practices together, while each keeps its own identity and audience.
Additional CEO feedback (a later, separate message): the address and hours were wrong; provide the correct address (121 Commons Way, Greenville, SC 29611) and hours (Mon–Thu 8–4, Fri 8–12); add a real map.	Updated the address everywhere (footers on all pages, contact card, legal text, structured data), set the new hours (table + live “open/closed” status), and embedded a real interactive map in the footer “Visit us” card.
